PHELPS SUBDUES MORGAN IN 15TH; PIKEVLLE WINNER

Five Morgan Lads Played Their Last Game In Tourney

The Pikeville Panthers, a dark horse entry in the 15th regional tourney, fought their way through two overtime victories to gain the finals of this year's meet, and then completed their surprising sweep by upsetting Meade Memorial's undefeated Red Devils by a rousing 61-47 score in the championship fray.

The Panthers ascended to the finals by toppling Garrett by a seven-point spread in the opening round and then scoring a 3-point margin over Phelps in the semi-finals. In both contests Coach John Bill Trivete's men were forced into overtime periods before they emerged victorious.

Meade Memorial traveled to the championship afairs by eliminating Wayland 84-71 in the opening round and outscoring Paintsville by a 13-point margin in the semi-finals. Paintsville gained the semis by trouncing Sandy Hook 81-53 in the opening round.

Phelps Eliminates Morgan

The local Morgan County five was knocked out of the tourney in the first round by a classy Phelps quint.

The Morgan team led the Phelps crew throughout the first three quarters and it was not until the final four minutes that the Hornets were able to pull ahead and win over the Blue Devils. During the waning minutes, however, the Phelps lads outscored the local five by a decisive margin and thus carried away honors by a 83-73 tab. Had the Devils been more familiar with this brand of ball they probably would have been able to maintain their once held lead of 17 points.

Stacy, McKenzie and Franklin registered 17, 16 and 13 points respectively to pace the Devils. Dado and Estep headed the Phelps attack with 22 points each.

Five Morgan county seniors completed their high school playing careers with their defeat Thursday night. Wearers of the Blue and Gold for the last time included Larry McKenzie, Richie Stacy, Jerry Franklin, Ken Hamilton and Joe Lykins.

SOME REMINISCENCES

By P. M. BENTON
Batavia, Ohio

One of the deepest snows that I can remember in Morgan county fell about March 20, 1892. It began to snow hard some time before noon and kept it up all day and into the night. When morning came everything was buried under two feet or more of snow. We had about enough wood on hand to make one fire and the rest of our fuel was standing in the woods. At that time my brother Franklin and I were the family woodchoppers and it would be putting it mildly to say that the woodchoppers were on the spot.

We put old yarn stockings over our shoes for leggings and wrapped up the best we could and with our axes started out for the nearest tree with Franklin in the lead and I following in his footsteps. The snow was almost waist deep in places. When the tree fell all that could be seen of it were the limbs sticking up out of the snow.

We cut and carried on our shoulders to the house enough wood to last overnight when our good Mother came up with a wise suggestion that we quit and let every day provide for itself. The snow did not stay with us very long and in a few days things were back to normal.

One spring Franklin and I broke our corn ground with a yoke of two-year-old steers. That is a very slow way to plow. We got done by and by but we had

NEW LINE DIRECT TO THE FIRE SIREN

A direct line from the West Liberty fire department building to the fire siren atop the county courthouse was built last week and persons may report a fire now by telephoning the West Liberty Fire Dept., SH 3-4775, or Trayner & Evans Garage, SH 3-4675 (daytime only).

Before dial telephones were installed, a fire could be reported by calling central. However, when dial phones were installed it became necessary to make a different arangement since no operators are used in the automatic dial system. The direct line from the fire department to the siren on the courthouse was the result.

The siren now can be sounded by either Fire Chief John Turner at the fire department or by employees of Trayner & Evans Garage next door. So in case of fire, call the fire department or Trayner & Evans.

Blasts of the fire siren will indicate what section of town has a fire. The blast signals remain the same as in the past, and are—

Main Street—one long blast

Riverside Drive—one long and three short blasts

Broadway—one long and two short blasts

Prestonsburg Street—one long and one short blast

Glenn Avenue—one long and four short blasts.

TO GIVE VACCINE TO PUPILS WHOSE PARENTS ASK IT

Polio Vaccine Be Be Given Children In Grades 1 and 2

Plans were commenced in Morgan county this week to join in the nationwide administration of Salk polio vaccine next month to children in the first and second grades of school.

Sufficient vaccine for these groups will be supplied without charge by the State Health Department through the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis if and when it is licensed by the government. Final evaluation of the tests made on 440,000 children last spring is to be announced April 4, Dr. Kokko of the Kentucky Health Department said this week. But, he added, we must make plans now for possible usage to protect as many children as possible before this year's polio season.

Thus, the county health department, school officials, local physicians and the county polio chapter commenced organizing for the job this week, along with other counties throughout the nation.

It is estimated there are 700 children in Morgan county in the first two grade, Supt. Carl Stewart said.

Clinics will be set up at two centers in the county to give the vaccine free to children whose parents sign application cards.

Forms requesting vaccination for children are being distributed by the teachers to children of the first two grades in Morgan county this week. A letter explaining the program accompanies the applications. Parents are urged to sign the applications and return them to the teachers by March 22.

Only children whose parents sign the application will receive the vaccine free at clinics. The Morgan County Medical Society composed of Dr. Ralph Gullett, Dr. Murray, Dr. Spencer and Dr. Bebee, went on record endorsing the vaccine program this week. They are cooperating with health and school officials in planning the clinics.

Dr. Ralph Gullett will direct the program in Morgan county.

The meetings of health, school and medical society officials were held this week to plan the program. A lay meeting was held Monday night at the courthouse to explain the program.

Tentative plans call for two clinics in the county, both to be be conducted simultaneously—one at West Liberty and one at Ezel. School buses will be run to bring the children to the clinics.

Three shots are needed to give immunity to polio. The first two are given a week apart and the last shot four weeks later. The huge problem of administering the vaccine requires extensive planning and a number of volunteers will be needed to expedite the job.

Right now it is important that parents sign the applications for their children and return them so it can be determined how many are to receive the vaccine and the buses needed to transport the pupils to the clinics.

Burley Production Crub Needed to Save Program

2 AMENDMENTS TO BURLEY LAW UP IN CONGRESS

House Approves Bill For Burley Vote on New Cut

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 16—Additional legislation to stave off disaster in the burley tobacco program was introduced in Congress today by congressmen from the key tobacco state of Kentucky.

Simultaneously, a House subcommittee gave its approval to three ammendments introduced last week by the same Kentucky lawmakers, Senator Earle Clements and Rep. John C. Watts, to undergird the tobacco program.

Later in the day the sub-committee voted for a bill calling for a referendum by burley growers on proposed cuts in minimum acreage allotments and further reductions in the 1955 marketing quota.

The tobacco program, long recognized as the "model" price-support system, is in danger of collapsing after several years of continued over-production. The The industry has asked Congress to clamp tighter controls on production through legislation.

Two Amendments

The Clements-Watts Bill introduced today would amend the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, to:

1. Preserve the tobacco acreage history of farms which voluntarily withdraw from the production of tobacco.

2. Provide that the benefits of future increases in tobacco acreage allotments shall first be extended to farms on which there have been decreases in such allotments in prior years.

In commenting on the proposed amendments, the Kentucky Democrats said, referring to the first proposal, that "it has been established that there are many farms today producing tobacco solely for the purpose of maintaining their allotment in view of the value the allotment adds to the land."

The solons said, "we are confident there are many of these farms whose owners would immediately withdraw from the production of tobacco if they had legislative assurance the allotments for their farms would not be reduced for failure to plant, which would be the case under present legislation."

Clements and Watts said the proposal would apply only to those farms having an allotment in 1954, and the requirements for new farm allotments would not be altered in any way.

"While the total acreage involved might not be substantial over-all," they said, "We believe this to be one of the most important steps to be taken in obtaining voluntary decreases in production."

With respect to the second proposal, they pointed out that since the inception of the modern burley tobacco program in 1940, farm acreage allotments from one acre up have been reduced substantially and are, in many cases, far below the highest previously established aliotment.

"It seems only fair in view of the reductions which have been accepted by the growers under the program that they be given the opportunity to regain acreages lost before farms which have not participated in such reductions are allowed to benefit from any future increases which may become effective under the law," the congressmen related.

They said further that, as far as they knew, there was no objection on the part of any segment of the tobacco industry to the proposals introduced today.

Clements and Watts said they anticipated speedy enactment by the Congress.

Another Cut Proposed

Gaining subcommittee approval was legislation which would:

1. Authorize the secretary of agriculture to take a new look at the marketing quota on the basis of latest information. Cuts in the quota would be limited to 10 percent, which would be in addition to a 10 percent cut ordered last November.

2. Reduce the minimum acreage allotment, now set at seven-tenths of an acre, to half an acre. Cuts in the minimum acreage would be limited to one-tenth of an acre in any year. Thus a .7-acre base would be cut only to .6 this year.

Also reported favorably today were three earlier Clements-Watts amendments which would (1) increase the penalty on excess production from 50 to 75 percent, (2) remove excess production ("red card" tobacco) from consideration in establishing future allotments, and (3) provide for a reduction in farm acreage allot-

GROWERS FROM 10 COUNTIES HERE FOR MEETING TUESDAY

Second Cut Across The Board Needed, Growers Are Told

Tobacco is the only commodity that is now supported at 90 percent of parity and if growers want to keep the price-support program then we must curb surpluses and abide by our obligation to Congress to keep supply in line with demand, U. S. Department of Agriculture officials told burley growers from ten counties at a district meeting in West Liberty Tuesday.

The Morgan county courtroom was filled by interested burley growers and county ASC officials from mountain counties. Between 450 and 500 people attended the 2½-hour meeting.

Dillard Murphy, Morgan County ASC committee chairman, presided and introduced the five speakers.

The meeting was one of seven being held in Kentucky to acquaint growers with the serious problem facing the burley price-support and acreage allotment program because of huge over-production of burley.

"The production of burley has increased in eight of the past ten years," Frank Ellis of the tobacco branch of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, told the group. "This overproduction didn't hurt too much as long as the consumption of tobacco was increasing, but as of now consumption of tobacco has turned down and there has been a decrease in cigarette sales of 8 percent," he added.

The tobacco industry and government co-ops now have on hand 1,863 million pounds, or about 3.8 years of production. A 2.7-year supply is normal and permits pretty good prices, he said. The Secretary of Agriculture set 1954 acreage allotments on a basis calculated to produce 526 million pounds last year. But despite the 10 percent cut in allotments, a crop of 665 million pounds was grown. And the government had to take one-third of the crop to support the price. The 10 percent cut in acreage didn't result in a reduction of burley, he emphasized. The simple truth is we have nearly one year's supply too much of burley, he stated.

Ellis also pointed out that the department had cut acreage allotments another 10 percent for this year but that this would only mean a net reduction of 6 percent since 64 percent of burley growers having 7-tenths acres or less base are exempt from further cuts under the present law.

The 1955 crop, on the basis of the recent 10 percent cut, could possibly reach 600 million pounds and a 50 percent cut would be needed next year, Ellis said.

"If the co-ops had not taken a third of the 1954 crop off the market, prices last fall would have been—well, you guess what," he said.

C. E. Williams, also an official in the tobacco branch of the Department of Agriculture, told the group the problem is nothing new in tobacco. But in the past, farmers have always cooperated in the program and have helped write the laws that kept supply in line with demand. Congress has given us 90 percent price support but we have the obligation to keep strict control of production to keep it in line with consumption. We in the burley belt don't want the philosophy of potato growers—to raise potatoes to sell to the government. That lost the program.

Sixty-four percent of the growers with 7-tenths acre bases or less who now have protection from acreage cuts are producing 70 million more pounds than when the program was started, Williams said.

"We can't continue to produce more than the industry can consume and at the same time save our program of 90 percent parity price support," Williams stated.

"The government now has 432 million pounds of burley under loan. You growers came home last year with more tobacco money than ever before—and you can thank the program for it," he said.

He enumerated amendments to the law which had been put before Congress.

These included a redetermination of market quotas and allotments for 1955, increasing penalties up to 75 percent of the previous season's average market price, reduction in allotment for false reports and a referendum on allotments for three years. Excessive production would not be considered in establishing allotments.

"You can rest assured," he said, "that we're going to have

ADVISES WOMEN ON WINDOW CLEANING

Washing windows is a chore most of us do not like, but do after accomplished. It will give our homes a clean look. Two tablespoons of ammonia added to two quarts of warm water will give a clean, sparkling gloss, or two tablespoons alcohol could be used instead of amonia.

If windows are grimy add ane tablespoon washing soda, vinegar or kerosene will sometimes remove stains caused from rust or tree limbs.

Are you a "Do-It-Yourself" Driver?
Or would you rather be waited on hand and foot?

Rather shift for yourself . . . or let Powerglide do it?
Shifting's smooth and easy with Chevrolet's new and finer Synchro-Mesh transmission. A flick of your wrist is all it takes to shift gears.
Powerglide, too, is better than ever this year. Even smoother and sturdier. It's the most popular automatic transmission* in Chevrolet's field!

Want standard steering . . . or extra-easy Power Steering?
Try this easy new Chevrolet steering. Only Chevrolet and some higher-priced cars use a ball bearing system to cut friction to a minimum.
There's nothing quite so easy as Power Steering, of course. Good news: Chevrolet's new linkage-type Power Steering* carries a reduced price!

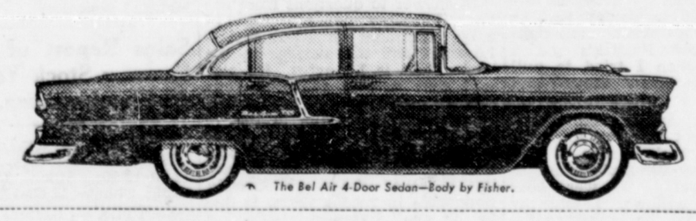

Apply the brakes like this . . . or have power make it easier?
Improved brakes and new swing-type pedals make stopping a cinch. And Chevrolet's exclusive Anti-Dive control gives you "heads up" stops!
Chevrolet Power Brakes* are better than ever this year—let you stop by a simple pivot of your foot from accelerator to swing-type brake pedal.

Position the seat yourself . . . or let electricity do it?
Chevrolet's big, beautifully upholstered front seat moves up and forward or down and back into your most comfortable driving position.
No worry about your battery in a new Chevrolet. It's the only car in its field with the reserve power of a 12-volt electrical system!

Automatically—
Chevrolet's stealing the thunder from the high-priced cars!
What's a high-priced car got that Chevrolet hasn't? Not automatic power features. Not style—just look below. Not performance—just try out Chevrolet's new V8 or one of the new 6's. Not ride—perhaps the thing that will surprise you most is Chevrolet's fine, solid feel on the road. Come put it to the test. See how Chevrolet's stealing the thunder from the high-priced cars in every way!

THE COMING VOTE ON THE TOBACCO PRICE SUPPORT PROGRAM

Burley tobacco growers will soon have a chance to vote on tobacco control and allotments according to a bill approved by the Senate Agricultural Committee Wednesday. Approval of the bill requires two-thirds majority vote of the growers. Failure to approve the bill means there will be no price support program for burley.

Before we had control and price support, tobacco brought from 5c to 20c per pound, or could not be sold. It is obvious that the good prices farmers have received is due to the acreage allotment and price-support program.

The situation today is simply too much tobacco on hands, and anyone can easily understand that there must be a reduction in order to have good prices for tobacco. Any grower would prefer a half-acre at 50 cents per pound rather than an acre at 20 cents per pound.

Overproduction has been increasing for several years and the over supply is now serious. An additional cut of 10 or 15 percent this year may prevent a radical 50 percent cut next year. Too, the proposed extra cut this year will probably rectify the situation and thus be the last cut in acreage for many years.

The referendum on which the growers will vote leaves it up to them. There is no doubt but what it is a good bill and will protect the interest of the growers.

It was prepared by our own Senators and Congressmen who are interested in the welfare of the growers and are working for their interest.

Every grower should vote for continuing the program as amended. There should be no dissenting vote. The bill will correct some weaknesses in the law which have existed heretofore.

THE FUTURE, ANOTHER ATLANTIS?

From time to time during the past year we have tried to present to the people the very real danger in which they find thmselves relative to A- and H-bomb attacks.

Until recently not too much has been said in most newspapers that would overly excite the population of America, but, rather, news releases concerning effects on civilization should there be an atom- or hydrogen-bomb attack have been given in such a conservative style, that much of what was written went by unnoticed. It might be safe to assume that there was a valid reason for this conservative approach to matters that might annihilate civilization. It would be foolish indeed to create mass hysteria: it would be twice-foolish to create mass chaotic thinking without some reasonable means of protection.

CONSIDERING the extreme importance of time in case of attack—a sufficient warning that would allow evacuation of our major cities—we have, for some time, emphasized the value of a civil defense medium such as the Ground Observer Corps. But it seems that people have minimized the role each small community or rural area could play if worse comes to worse.

Too many of us overlook the fact that we are in the middle of prime targets, and should enemy aircraft try to reach military centers or industrial plants in our outer radius, we might, if we are alert, give these centers warning soon eough that they could afford some means of protection such as getting aircraft fighters in position and the population to shelters. It is not too unreasonable to consider that in this age of air speed, there could be a miscalculation of target by the enemy that might very well find some rural community getting the bomb.

THE LOST continent of Atlantis is becoming more real to us each day. Strangely, it might be that man grows to a stage of intelligence, only to revert to fool by using that intelligence to destroy himself.

As civilization stands, three countries now have knowledge to produce H-bombs. It is hard to take that at least one of these countries might go beserk and deal the death blow to mankind. Or that scientific tinkering might light the fuse.

With the world threatened as it is, a means of positive protection is not at hand. There may not be time even to think about evacuation. There may not be time to run, and there apparently is no place to run to.

If such comes to pass, there is the possibility that people living in hill sections of our country have a greater chance of survival. Air-currents in the hills might leave safety-pockets (our own surmising), and our old-fashioned warm-houses dug cave-like into a hillside might be the perfect shelter. Even with the advent of the home freezer, many farmhomes still employ a warm-house. In this enclosure is kept food—foods preserved in liquids, and enough to feed many people several days, or until it would be assumed safe to come out.

ONE ANSWER lies in adequate civil defense. Another in cooperation of the people. Every community in America should organize for civil defense, that there would be no loopholes for the enemey to slip through.

The only alternate thinking we have to offer is that ultimately good will prevail; that there is faith in good to conquer the minds of all men that in perfecting the tools for universal destruction it has been learned they must be used only for universal peace.

FARMER HAS BIG JOB

In this complex age, a farmer has to be a jack-of-all trades, and master of all, according to the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture. The farmer should be an economist, engineer, mechanic, veterinarian, diplomat, weatherman, agronomist, entomologist and maybe know a lot about a few more things, if he is to get along. However, the ability and willingness to work long hours day after day may still be the key to success. And a farmer has to do most of the work himself, as wages rise and workers go away to cities to get $10 to $20 a day.

No one seems to know just how prosperous farmers are. A good many city people seem to think farmers are rolling in money. Stories were told at a recent meeting of dairymen at the UK Experiment Station which might lead one to believe all farmers own convertibles and spend a lot of time racing about. One man, however, expressed the belief that some dairymen were having to struggle to keep their heads above water. And one or two speakers were not sure just how good times are and just what might be ahead for farmers. Even tobacco growers are somewhat muddled up.

University of Kentucky economists expect steady prices for farm products, at least through the spring and probably all year. Which means farmers should make some money, if they broke even or made a little last year. Every year farmers learn more about cutting costs. This should mean more profit, if prices hold. People in cities are supposed to be prosperous—working at big wages and eating like sixty. Under such conditions, there should be steady to increasing demand for food.

RX. FOR TOBACCO: QUALITY, NOT QUANTITY

From Courier-Journal

When burley tobacco is in trouble, Kentucky is in trouble. And at the moment burley tobacco is in trouble.

The supply of burley now on hand is equivalent to about a three and one-half years' supply. That is not as bad as it may sound. Under the price support-crop control program which has been in effect for most of the last 20 years, the federal government has been performing a storage function for the tobacco trade which ordinarily it would perform itself. But it is true that we do have now a surplus a burley equal to about one year's supply.

What is worse, we have on hand a lot of burley that is of low quality. It is high-nicotine tobacco that needs to be blended with much lower-nicotine leaf to make good smoking tobacco.

The situation, however, is not yet so serious that it cannot be improved. The solution to the problem will be costly to Kentuckiana growers and as a result to all of Kentuckiana, but it need not be as costly to the community as many think at the moment.

Because tobacco is held for several years before it is used, it will be possible to work off the surplus of lower-grade burley over the next few years if burley growers are willing to co-operate. What is needed in the next few years is the production of a series of high-quality burley crops. In fact, the need is for production of high-quality burley from now on out.

Burley growers obviously have made a mistake in translating acreage controls into a demand for greater production per acre. For once, at least, the philosophy of growing "two blades of grass where only one grew before" has proved wrong.

Lower production per acre with increasing attention to quality—low nicotine content and fine leaf—can be equated into higher incomes per acre than high yields from smaller allotments.

The solution to the burley problem lies in the hands of burley growers themselves. The burley control and price support program grew out of the recognition on the part of burley growers for an orderly method of production and marketing.

The present situation is nowhere near as serious as the one that brought about the program. Surely the common sense that prevailed to provide that program will prevail again to save it.

SCHOOL NEWS

Ezel is located about three miles from the Menifee county line and 16 miles from West Liberty on U. S. 460.The location and surrounding area is a high plateau or table land drained by Blackwater and its tributaries.

Since the school was established all the close and adjoining one room schools have been consolidated with Ezel and more than four hundred pupils and a staff of 19 teachers make up the school One of the new teachers this year is, Miss Elizabeth Newcombe of Anderson county Kansas. Miss Newcombe was raised on a farm in Kansas and graduated from the high school, attended Monmouth College and received an A.B. degree, she later attended the University of Kansas at Lawerence, Kansas, receiving a masters degree. She taught three years in the rural school and twenty seven years in the high schools in Kansas before coming to Ezel. This is her first year at Ezel. She teaches math in the 8th and 9th grades and is librarian.

She said "You know in Kansas we have no hills like here, and I am so impressed and thrilled with the beautiful scenery, the woods, the hills and a visit to Sky Bridge. It is all so wonderful." She thinks Ezel school has such a fine staff of teachers. She said in Kansas they had days when schools would visit the high school and with teachers of music and band instructors they would have programs and diners for the children. She also thinks they need more books and stories about Kentucky for the library so the children could learn more of their state. She has two high school girls: Phylis Motley and Helen Lane who help her in the library which has shelves tables. While I was visiting children came in and secured books and read them Miss Newcombe said they would certainly appreciate receiving books as most of the ones they have were given to them.

Ezel Staff

The first grade is taught at the church. There are two teachers Florence Wheeler. The second in the basement is taught by Mrs. Mildred Little and Gladys Millan. The third grade by Mrs. Otis Murphy and the fourth by Mrs. Nathan Mynheir, the fifth by Otis Murphy; Mrs Mable Ward the home rooms are; 7th by Mrs. Glenn Helton and the 8th by Mr. Stanley Trimble, 9th grade Mrs. Duncan Henry who taught in Ethiopa, the 10th by Miss Marilyn Tauge. Her home is in Minnesota. She also teaches Bible. The 11th grade by Mrs. W. A. Heagan and the 12th by Miss Wanda Aigner

W. E. Heagen is superintendent of the school. Albert Dorsey is head of the department of Vocational Education and Miss Lois Raube is instructor in home economics. Miss Lois Heykoop, a former student and graduate of Bob Jones University, is teaching at Frenchburg this year. Dozens of Ezel graduates have gone from the school to become teachers, doctors and outstanding and leading citizens. The school has been worth millions of dollars to the people. This is no exaggeration. Everyone would agree with this if Dr. Roop or either of his brothers were your sons.

Citizens and schools are right now facing a decision of utmost importance which may never be offered again. Section 186 of the Coustitution of Kentucky was amended by a vote of three to one at the November election of 1953. This was to give the General Assembly of Kentucky a better method of distribution of the state school fund. The people acted. It is essential that the people understand what the Minimum Foundation program means and to make sure that candidates for and members of the Kentucky Legislature are pledged to support the Foundation program of education, which was enacted by the 1954 General Assembly. We live in a democracy and our elected officials want to know what the citizens want Let's be sure they know.

our ups and downs. It did not take long to find out that when those steers got too hot they would strike for the branch and take us and the plows with them. We soon learned to look for a shade while times were good.

It was not long after this that our father traded for a young mule and our affairs seemed to be on the "up and up."

One day I put a bushel of corn on him and started for Greenberry Lykins' mill. We got in front of the first neighbor's house when all at once that mule stopped still as if to say, "Hold everything." I began hitting him with a switch and he went sideway with me right against Herod Patrick's yard fence and when I tried to pull him away he turned around and took me back home.

My father saw us coming and and came out wanting to know why I came back so soon. I said, "I don't think the mule wants to go to mill today. We were near a patch of willows. I told my Dad to cut me the longest switch he could find.

When he handed it to me the mule took the hint right away and we went on to mill without any more foolishness.

The mule has been a faithful servant to the human race and mankind could well say, "Thank you, Mule. You have been good to us."

the best compliance record in 1955 than we've ever had."

"But we need legislation to bring supply in line with demand—and it must come from you," he emphasized. "You can make the program work if you want it to—but it's up to you growers," Williams said.

"The program will be no better than you want it to be," he added. "But, as big a mess as we are in, I don't see anything like as big a mess as on warehouse floors in 1933. I'd rather raise 5-tenths of an acre with a price-support program than 5 acres without a program," he declared.

In answer to questions from the floor, Ellis revealed that the average allotment in Kentucky is 1.6 acres and the average in the burley belt is 1.3 acres. He also said that despite the numerous cuts in allotments, production had gone up. This is due to the 7-tenths acre bases being protected from cuts, he explained. He also said the spread of burley growing to other states, particularly noticeable in recent years, is due to the small bases.

Both Mr. Ellis and Mr. Williams recommended the straight-across-the-board cuts. "This is necessary if we are to save the program," Ellis said.

Ellis and Williams were accompanied by Leonard Rouse and A. S. Gentry, members of the Kentucky ASC committee, and by representatives of the Kentucky Agriculture Experiment Station.

The Experiment Station specialist urged growers to raise varieties of burley suitable for smoking. Manufacturers want varieties with low nicotine content. Using too much nitrogen will delay the ripening of tobacco and add nicotine. Use only balanced fertilizers. he urged.

A number of growers asked questions at the conclusion of the talks and the specialists endeavored to answer each of them.

The large crowd attending attested to the interest growers have in the problem that faces the industry.

Attending the meeting were growers and ASC committeemen from Morgan, Elliott, Rowan, Carter, Lawrence, Magoffin, Lee, Owsley, Wolfe, Breathitt and Menifee counties.

FISHING NEWS

A truck load of blue gills was brought to West Liberty Thursday and distributed to pond owners who had previously applied for them. The employees of the department of fish and game were Lewis Cunningham of Switzer, and Bill Turner of Frankfort. Both men were most congenial and when three men who had applied failed to show up, they were asked what would be done with any fish not taken. The fishing editor warned them of the great danger they would face if any fish were taken back or given to any other place. The men were most humble and agreed to obey the warning. Those receiving fish for their ponds were Ray Blair, Lace Conley, Clyde Lewis, Rufus Nickell, Paul Gevedon, Chas. E. Cecil, Clay Byrd, Wendall Black, Leroy Gibson, Walter Collins and Lonus Lewis. Chas. E. Cecil was unable to be present and his mother, Mrs. Flave Cecil received the fish for him.

There are hundreds of farms in this county where a pond could be easily built at low cost and afford water for stock and a wonderful opportunity for fishing. It is said that 800 pounds of fish can be grown on an acre of water. It is doubtful if this much food and fun could possibly be produced with any other thing to say nothing about the difference in labor. David Adams, conservation officer, helped in the fish delivery and distribution.

Gay Easterling, city, clerk, ate fish one day this week but would not tell who gave them to her.

YOUR SCHOOLS

"If a nation expects to be ignorant and free in a state of civilization it expects what never was and never will be," Thomas Jefferson said.

As a freedom-loving people we are concerned with retaining the freedoms we possess. We cannot afford to overlook the fact that our power to hold freedom depends upon the extent of our education. We have learned more than once that preparedness is important in a world where freedom is forever threatened by tyranny. But somehow we have not learned that an educated public must be a necessary part of our preparedness.

The popular idea is that power to overcome the forces which threaten our freedom lies in guns, planes, bombs, and all the mechanical gadgets which accompany modern warfare. Therefore, to strengthen our defenses, we concentrate on building these.

These are the things we will need for the defense of our freedoms. But are they all we need? Are we not neglecting education —the greatest weapon of all?

Examine Jefferson's statement again, and then note these facts about Kentucky's education picture:

1. Of every 100 schools in Kentucky, 54 are one-room schools attended by 15 percent of Kentucky's pupils.

2. Kentucky has approximately 2400 teachers whose qualifications are below legal standards.

3. Of every 100 pupils who enter the first grade in Kentucky, only 14 graduate from high school.

4. The level of white adult education in Kentucky is the lowest in the nation.

5. The average salary of classroom teachers in Kentucky is $2260 a year, while the national average is $3605.

It is not a very pretty picture, is it? When we are taking inventory of our defenses, how can we neglect the cause of education? What will the most powerful bombs or the greatest battleships profit us if our children grow up with no opportunity to learn the significance of atomic energy or the principles which it has ceased to understand through neglect of careful teaching and an intensive educational program?

In a world of splitting atoms and clashing ideas, the uneducated citizen is doomed to slavery.

Education is a process of producing citizens who are capable of building bombs and battleships and using them if necessary. At the same time it is a process of developing thinking, and tolerant human beings who constantly strive to eliminate the necessity for bombs and battleships.

But as the preceding facts indicate, we are failing in our first line of defense by not keeping up with progress educationally.

What is the solution to the problem? First of all comes the laying of a foundation and a drawing up of plans. Secondly, it is a matter of financing these plans. If our battleships and our planes were left on the drafting board our defense would be inadequate.

After the planning we must then fulfill those plans. In Kentucky education we already have made the plans and laid the foundation. Now, the next step is to carry out these plans through pay for the construction of a better school system.

In education, like everything else, we get only what we pay for. We are willing to pay for the battleships, the bombs, the planes, but we are unwilling to pay for schools and for the education of our children. Our reluctance to spend money for education is a strange thing.

Whether or not a community or a nation prospers depends on how hard it tries to educate itself. Education means a higher standard of living in all areas for everyone concerned. In the long run, education doesn't really cost; it pays.

Building up our defenses with education is the only way to preserve freedom and our democratic way of life.

OBITUARY

MRS. ROBERT L. MEYERS

Mrs. Dora Anice Cox Meyers, one of 14 children (eight of whom remain) was born at their home on Brownie's Creek in Bell county, Ky., about ten miles from Pineville, March 1, 1885, daughter of the late Jim Tom and Sarah Jane Cox.

She attended the public schools of that day and for a while at Williamsburg Institute, as it was then known. Later in her young womanhood she taught school for two or three years, first in Bell County, then in Claiborne County, Tennessee, in the country out from New Tazewell.

Her parents and the family had moved over into Tennessee, and in 1905 they sold out and moved on to Wills Point in eastern Texas. Dora and brother (deceased) attended a business college in Knoxville. In a few months she joined the family in Texas. After a while on the farm she attended Tyler, Texas business college, then worked for a while as an attendant in the state asylum in Terrell, Texas. Then she took office work in a lawyer's office in Haskell, a west Texas town. After a while she went to Fort Worth, Texas, and worked in Swift & Company's office.

Before leaving Tennessee she got acquainted with a young man named Robert Meyers after which life was not any more the same for either. That acquaintance at an afternoon country Sunday School in the summer of 1905 ripened quickly into friendship, then into love, and on December 29, 1912 into marriage in North Fort Worth where he had gone in 1909.

No man ever had a truer, better, more devoted, hard working consecrated companion for 42 years than she was. She loved intensely. There came into their home July 9, 1915, at their Fort Worth home their only child who grew up to be Rev. Eugene Kenneth Meyers, now of Olive Hill, Kentucky. In five weeks she took the child to church and he is still going. In a few months he was christened and she baptized the same Sunday. She having been converted a few months prior to the occasion.

By concern, study, and application she served as Sunday school teacher of various aged groups and worked tirelessly in the women's organizations. Her counseling has helped many and there are those who have found Christ as Saviour under her witnessing. She has been faithful, loyal and jealous of the dignity of her home, loving to her grandchildren and their home, to her church, to her Christ, and to all people.

Her encouragement and devoted cooperation to her husband helped him in the local ministry in Fort Worth, and in his joining the Conference as a traveling preacher in November 1926. She worked with him in the Lord's work in Texas, in Montana and in various places in Kentucky during these 28 years of labor for the Kingdom of our Lord and our Christ.

The time came when God seemed to say it is enough, I need you. So, after nearly four months of severe illness she went home to glory at 1:15 a.m. March 13, 1955, to spend her first Sunday there looking for dear ones to follow. Who is it that would not want to go to glory—God's glory?

She leaves a heartbroken preacher husband, her son, Rev. Eugene Kenneth Meyers and wife Helene, three granddaughters—Jeanne Madeleine, Suzanne Helene, and Nancy Jane, and one grandson, David Eugene Meyers, all of Olive Hill, Kentucky. She leaves also five brothers: Max H. Cox of Pineville, Chester Cox of Insul, Arthur of Fort Smith, Arkansas, Gillis of Locust Grove, Oklahoma, and Calloway of Rose, Oklahoma; three sisters, Mrs. Ruth Gilbert, Mrs. Oma Jackson and Miss Mary Catherine Cox, all of Edgewood, Texas. Besides these, other relatives and a host of devoted, faithful, loving friends scattered across the land.

Her tired broken body shall one day come forth a glorious body up out of the Battle Grove Cemetery, Cynthiana, Kentucky, to march all over glory with the hosts of God's redeemed of all ages. In fact she is doing that already. Jesus said it shall be even so, and we believe Him. Let us all prepare to join this march of the glorified hosts of the blood-washed redeemed and shout the praises of our God in Christ throughout the endless ages of eternity. Friends, we cannot afford to miss it.

BURLEY LAW

ments where a producer knowingly files a false report with respect to acreage grown on his farm .

Under present law, a credit of one-tenth acre is permitted in the following year for each acre of excess production on which a penalty is paid.

All of the proposals now go to the full membership of the House Agriculture Committee. They may be considered at a meeting tentatively planned for Friday.

Referendum Sought

The referendum, as proposed, would give growers two choices: (1) Accept the revised quotas, or (2) remove tobacco entirely from production controls and price support.

It has been emphasized by tobacco men that speed is necesary in seting up the referendum on quota and acreage cuts because much work already has been started in preparation for the 1955 crops. May 1 has been suggested as the latest date.

A spokesman for the Agriculture Department said results of the voting could be counted within 20 days after Congress authorizes the special balloting.

The bill would provide that the proposed cuts would be effective only upon approval by two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum. If the proposal were rejected by the growers, crop supports could be withdrawn.

A joint Senate-House subcommittee studying means of cutting into the burley surplus is continuing its investigation of the problem. Clements is chairman of the group.

FLORRESS—

PREACHER & HORSE GET A DUCKING

FLORRESS, Ky., March 15—(By Nora Easterling)—Rev. Smith Elam had a narrow escape as he tried to ride through the water above Kash Cottle's home. His horse missed the road which was under water. It went down with Rev. Elam on it. But the horse, being a good swimmer, came out of the water with the Rev. on it. They didn't come back through, but crossed the hill and came down Honeymoon Holar. One observer said all they could see when the horse went under water was the Rev.'s hat. Lucky he had a good horse.

Rev. E. T. Nickell, age 64, and Bessie Nickell, age 65, report they have been marrried 48 years last September. They are the parents of nine children, all living. The oldest child is 46 years and the youngest is 28. They have two girls and seven boys. They report a wonderful bunch of children, all good singers, since their dad is a singing teacher and their mom a gifted singer. One is a minister, Rev. Arlie Nickell, who is pastor and assistant pastor Lacey Creek Baptist church. The Nickell family sing solo, duet, trio or quartet. They have 15 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

The recent floods were something to see. The Licking River was spread from hill to hill, covering some parts of the highway. The highway from a distance looked like a large rope stretched across the water. Motoring to Maysville and across the Ohio river, there was water and more water. The Ohio was angry-looking, swift and muddy, with drifts all over. Some homes were surrounded with water. In places it looked like a town built in water. One home, a boat was tied to the front of the house. The water was up in one side of the highway at Ripley on Monday. When the water began to recede, it looked so peaceful and calm, with a quiet breeze blowing as if to cheer the residents around the river side.

Mrs. J. K. Bolin got word that her sister, Mrs. Sam Dillon of Ivel is seriously ill and not expected to live.

Mrs. J. K. Bolin and Mrs. Laura Williams have been quilting recently, but had difficulty in threading their needles. However, J. K. who will be 75 years old in May was kept busy threading needles for both women.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy S. Elam and children were visitors of Mrs. Laura Williams; Darrel Williams, visitor of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Williams; Raymond Williams, visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Manford Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Easterling—got waterbound last week end and could not return to Dayton until Monday.

Rev. and Mrs. Walter Easterling and Mrs. Flossie Williams spent last week in Dayton, Ohio and Fairborn with their children. We visited with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Williams and children, Rev. and Mrs. Tooney Easterling and children and Rev. and Mrs. Toney Easterling. Flossie visited Mr. and Mrs. Bill Humphrey, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Mays, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Arkie Williams. We met with Miss Betty Williams. The Sniderville church was conducted by the Easterling ministers. Rev. Tooney is pastor and Rev. Toney is assistant. We met with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Perry, Rev. A. Bentley, Rev. James P. Lemaster and many others.

Stanley and Clay Haney went to Dayton to see Stanley's brother, W. C. Haney, Sunday.

Jerry Haney, age 7, and in the second grade at the Lacy Creek school, is learning something unusual for a small school boy. He can say his ABC's, starting from A going to Z, then starting from Z coming back to A, then starting from A-Z-B-Y and on into the middle, then starting from the middle M-N and coming back to A-Z—without looking at them.

Mrs. Mary S. Lemaster has returned from a visit to Apopka, Florida.

Mrs. Thurman Ferguson, Long Branch, and Mrs. Leonard Elam of Index were last Thursday guests of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Conley.

Rev. Walter Johnson and Alfred G. visited here Sunday.

Last week we heard of an Arkansawer bragging on the merits of a hound he had lost. It seems the old hound was very intelligent and before going hunting the owner would cut out a board to use in stretching the hide of his prospective game and the old dog would then go out and tree a coon whose hide would fit the board. Everything went well until one day when the missus set the ironing board outside the the house. After taking one look the hound disappeared and hasn't been seen since.

GRASSY CREEK—

J. M. PINES FOR THE "GOOD OLD DAYS"

GRASSY CREEK, Ky., March 14—Well, here it is, March half gone and nothing done by way of farm work, and but little done by way of any other work anywhere in this section of the country. Times have changed much in the last several years. In our boyhood, February was usually an ideal month for the making of tree sugar, since frosty nights and sunny days brought out the sap of the sugar maple, which was boiled down to that delicious sweetening which nothing else has ever equaled. The oldtime March usually came in about the tenth with some nice, warm clear weather when the kids doused their old winter shoes, rolled up their breeches and hiked off to the creek with their willow rods and pin hooks after a fine mess of fat fish and they didn't need any fishing editor to comment on their catch, and at about this time the men were busy with their clearings, log rollings and the women with their quiltings; everybody contented and happy, big dinners, big times with little worry over money affairs since there was but little money in the country to worry over.

Every community had its doctor, whose fees were usually one dollar per visit and could be paid by labor, or a few pounds of meat. The doctor was usually kept busy, though there were no such complaints to atend as T.B., arthritis, neuritis, polio, appendicitis, high or low blood pressure, athlete's foot, or even sinus trouble. Of course, there were such diseases as consumption, rheumatis, neuralgia, sore throat and liver trouble and worms, but calomel, and rhubarb and santonin usually proved helpful in most cases. Hospitals, clinics, operations and anesthetics had not been dreamed of.

Taxes, the political worry of today were negligible. I have in my possession most of my father's tax receipts from the Civil War up to the time I took over; but few of these were for more than three to four dollars. Up to to the time our eight children were grown, our total medical and dental expenses had not exceeded sixty dollars. Today, the birth of one baby would cost about twice as much.

The last eight days began with two cold mornings of scant snow and a big frost, then turned to moderate summer weather, up within the sixties, including six-tenths inches of rain. Much damage has been done by the high waters, but it will probably raise the water level that has been so badly needed in the country.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Nickell, Mr. and Mrs. Orison Cannoy, Mr. and Mrs. Estill Gevedon, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gevedon, Brenda and Dougie were with us for part of Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buskirk of Winchester came in Sunday and took the Deward Adams family on a visit to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Buskirk at Greear.

Bert Gevedon sold a work mule to a Mr. Kemplin of Woodsbend last week.
